“ ” Something about me

I am a very ambitious guy, even too much. I always tend to complete my tasks and more I work on them more I am interested and passionate about them, I am a hardened perfectionist I always strive to complete the objectives until I achieve a result to my liking. I always try to overcome my limits and sometimes I tend to do it too hastily as a demonstration of the passion and dedication I put into it. My goal is to always learn new things consistently not only in the IT field but in all the areas that could be useful to me in life and not only also with regards to hobbies music, games, painting and many other things I would like to always learn new things! I prefer to work in a team, I just think it is much more fun than working alone because I can compare myself with others and maybe try to surpass myself and them.
